Dear Friends,

Thanks to your generous support, The Actors Fund is here for everyone in performing arts and entertainment throughout their lives and careers, and especially at times of great distress.

Last year overall we provided $1,970,360 in emergency financial assistance for crucial needs such as preventing evictions and paying for essential medications. We were devastated to see the destruction and loss of life caused by last year's wildfires in California—the most deadly in history, and nearly $134,000 went to those in our community affected by the fires and other natural disasters (p. 7).

As a national organization, we're building awareness of how our programs can help foster stability and resiliency in communities beyond Los Angeles and New York. We've partnered with unions and arts organizations to offer financial wellness and career seminars in San Francisco and Nashville; and we're building a coalition of support for growth of services in our Chicago office as well.

We're also hard at work to keep everyone as healthy as possible, providing the latest information nationally on how to find an affordable health insurance plan that best fits specific needs for those who may rotate on and off of union or private plans. Entertainment Health Insurance Solutions (EHIS), our new joint program of The Actors Fund and MPTF offers California residents in our entertainment and performing arts community personalized counseling and enrollment support. Plus, The Friedman Health Center for the Performing Arts in New York City, now in its third year, offers an excellent team of two general practitioners, as well as specialists in dermatology, physical therapy and podiatry to keep our community thriving (p. 10).

With your help, we've expanded Looking Ahead to both coasts, offering programs to help professional young performers and their families thrive amid the unique challenges of working in the entertainment industry. We're now not only in Los Angeles but also in New York City at The Paul Libin Center, right in our Times Square offices (p. 18).

For those who've dedicated a major portion of their lives to performing arts and entertainment, The Actors Fund Home continues to offer the very best in skilled nursing and assisted living, as well as memory care at our newest addition, The Samuel J. & Florence T. Friedman Pavilion (p. 15).

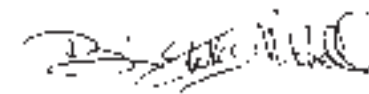

And we're happy to open our doors wide at The Home to welcome anyone, whether they have worked in performing arts and entertainment or not, who may need our world-class short-stay rehabilitation therapies (physical, occupational and speech)—all with the goal of a safe return home after a hospital stay (p. 14).

Thanks to your generous support, The Actors Fund continues, stronger than ever and is here for those who need us most. Our work would not be possible without an engaged Board as well as the efforts of our top notch staff and volunteers.

In addition, Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS continues to be our steadfast partner, assuring help is there in these uncertain times.

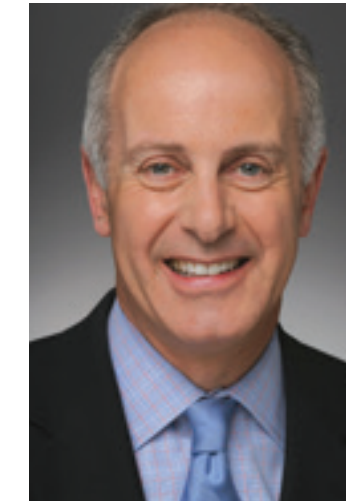

Your support is part of a grand tradition of caring for our entertainment and performing arts community. Thank you for helping to assure that the show will go on, and on.

Responding to Natural Disasters

Last year, many parts of California were devastated by wildfires that decimated entire towns. The Actors Fund offered help to 80 members of the performing arts and entertainment community who were affected, many of whom lost their homes and all of their possessions.

Our emergency financial assistance helped people gain access to clothes, food, sundries and temporary housing, as well as connections to federal disaster relief, disaster unemployment, food support and legal consultation; and also offered crisis counseling and case management. If someone you know in our community needs our assistance, please tell them to visit actorsfund.org/Assistance.
